Find Jawbone of Young Kendall Hidden Under Rock in Ravine

MRS. STARBUCK WILL BE CALLED AS A WITNESS IN THE KENDALL INVESTIGATION

Authorities Now Satisfied That Family of Three Were Slain at Cazadero and That Yamaguchi Was the Murderer

that they were both imbued with the same religious mystical tendencies and worked together in their studies.

Yamaguchi owed Mrs. Starbuck a debt of gratitude. His whole object in life had become a desire to express his loyalty and devotion to the white woman of culture who had chosen him as a fellow-student. Yamaguchi, who was high in the councils of his mistress, knew of her dream to colonize her ranch at Cazadero with Japanese. With Yamaguchi and Mayeda, Mrs. Starbuck had planned the installation on the ranch of a little republic of thought and worship in which might be carried out her own ideas of a new system of religion which would embrace a combination of Shintoism and Buddhism, a little Christianity, some Greek mythology, and a flavoring of other rites and cults known to the ancients.

Nurtured New Religion

And on top of all this, and in the face of her previous denials Mrs. Starbuck herself today frankly and freely admitted that it was her plan to establish at her ranch in Cazadero a home and refuge for her Japanese friends, where there might be nurtured a new religion. Mrs. Starbuck said:

"Yes, we had planned to build a temple on the ranch. It wasn't going to be for any particular religion or for any particular man. It was to be for all men of all faiths. We are all children of God. There is no particular race of chosen people. We are all guided by the same great controlling forces. There is a little good in everything; there is good in every religion. It was our plan to take the best of every religion and amalgamate them on our ranch, so that all who went there might live and be happy."

That was Mrs. Starbuck's dream. It was hard to get her to confess it. It was only after she had been told that the poet Kano and his wife, Gertrude Boyle, had told all they knew that she admitted it.

New Clue Cinches Theory Kendall Family Was Slain

CAZADERO, Cal., Aug. 6.—Positive proof that the Kendall family was murdered and the jawbone of the slain son was found today by the finding of the upper jaw. Arthur Sharpe, a medical student, saw the jaw and declared that it was the jaw of a young person. Seven of the molars were filed with amalgam. Four front teeth were broken off. The find was made in the ravine back of the Kendall home, where the half-eaten torso of Mrs. Kendall was found early this week.

Newton Grider, one of the first searchers, found the jaw. It was concealed under a large rock in the bottom of the ravine. It is evident that the murderer carried his burden up to the bottom of the ravine after finding it, and he could not destroy the bones of a Kendall and her son and escape from the place before daylight.

FIND DISSIPATES THEORY.

The finding of Tom Kendall's jawbone scuttles the idea that his body was not buried. While none of the searchers could identify the jawbone as Kendall's, the result of Sharpe's examination attested the district attorney and she felt that Kendall's body was buried.

No trace of the body of John Kendall has been found. It may be that the body of the murdered boy was carried away by the wind and in the heat of the day the body came from his body.

District Attorney Lea is positive now that the murder was committed between Saturday afternoon and early Sunday morning. William Churchill, a neighbor of the Kendalls, who was a witness before the coroner's jury, said today that he was considering the sale of his ranch to Yamaguchi. The Japanese wanted the property back. Yamaguchi called on Churchill on several times in connection with the sale of his ranch. He wanted him, Churchill said, to increase the boundaries of the Starbuck ranch, which the Japanese was planning to transform into a resort.

Suspected Slayer Sought Across Bay

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—The San Francisco police department today made efforts to locate Yamaguchi, the suspected murderer, in the city. No word, however, was received.

A full description of the hunted man has been turned to the local department and has been given individually to every patrolman in the city.

According to Captain of Detectives Wall there is little chance he is over in the murder being in San Francisco at the present time.

"It may be, of course," said Wall, "that some friend among the Japanese may be hiding him, or against that possibility we are trying to find out. Thus far we have no indication that he is in any place in the city. We have asked the Japanese consuls to assist us in finding the man, but they have given us their promise to do what they can to find the man and to turn him over to the police."

"It is my opinion," however, that if he is still in the state he is in Oakland."

It became known today that Mrs. Margaret Starbuck will be called as a witness at the coroner's inquest. The scene of activity will be shifted to Santa Rosa on Monday, when Coroner Plumb will return his investigation. Plumb will return his investigation. Plumb will return his investigation.

YAMAGUCHI'S MOVEMENTS.

The movements of Yamaguchi were practically settled today. The fact established here.

Saturday, July 23.—Yamaguchi was seen at 9 o'clock in the morning at his cabin. His knife was seen on the bed and he was hiding under a blanket. About 1 o'clock he was seen in the cabin by Mrs. Thompson as she returned to her home on the mountain near Yamaguchi's cabin.

Sunday, July 24.—Mrs. Thompson saw him preparing to leave the cabin. At 1:30 he was seen on the road to Cazadero. At 2:30 p. m. he reached Elm Gruta Road.

No trace of the gold which sent to Thomas has been found. It was sent to him two days before the murder by L. J. Samuels, an Oakland Jeweler. He received the money, as the postoffice receipts show.

NORTH DAKOTA FOR PRESIDENT

Governor John Burke Is Being Groomed for Race by Democrats.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Governor John Burke of North Dakota has been added to the list of Democratic possibilities for the Presidential nomination in 1912. Governor Burke was recently endorsed for the presidency at a big meeting of North Dakota Democrats at Bismarck who are enthusiastic over the fact that he has been carried a state that has been generally rated as republican.

Burke's friends believe he stands a good show for the nomination and they propose to push him forward in the belief that he may be able to capture the prize which Governor Judson Harmon is making a strong effort to get.

The Burke supporters urge that they can get the support of William Bryan for their candidate, whereas, they think Harmon cannot. Burke and Bryan have campaigned together in a hard fight for years.

From the post and philosopher, Kano, who was sealed twenty-four hours previously when it was sought to get from him some light on his relations with Mrs. Starbuck. And Kano went further. He admitted yesterday that which he had denied the day before, that

Mrs. Starbuck Admits Belief In Shintoism

Mrs. Margaret Starbuck ceased her equivocations today concerning her relations with Takeshi Kano, the Japanese artist-writer, his wife, formerly Mrs. Gertrude Boyle, ward of Joaquin Miller, and the Rev. S. Suto, Shinto priest and teacher of mysticism of the Orient.

She admitted that she had discussed Shintoism with the Rev. Mr. Suto, whom she had met through Takeshi Kano and his wife, and for a brief moment she told of her plans to build a home for the believers of her faith—a faith, as far as could be judged from Mrs. Starbuck's explanations, that is as broad as a pathos. Mrs. Starbuck would not go further. She referred all other questioning to her husband, who could not be found.

TELLS OF STATEMENTS.

She was told of the statements made by Kano and Gertrude Boyle Kano, in which the latter explained in detail the plans made for the establishment of a colony of Japanese on the Starbuck ranch.

"Did Mr. and Mrs. Kano tell you that?" queried Mrs. Starbuck in evident surprise. "Then I must see them before I can talk to you."

She admitted that she had been interested in Shintoism but carefully explained that the religion she had hoped to establish on her ranch was broader than that—"something for all men of all faiths"—was what she put it.

The details of her talks with the Rev. Mr. Suto, the Kano and others she carefully avoided, preferring, she said, to wait until her husband and her attorney advised with her.

KANO'S RELATIVES.

This revelation of Mrs. Starbuck's dream came directly from Takeshi Kano, the Japanese poet who married Gertrude Boyle.

Kano, who on Friday had denied previous knowledge of Mrs. Starbuck or her dream of establishing a Japanese cult at Cazadero, was one of several who repeated today that it was useless to consult the Kendall mystery in a tissue of falsehoods. He said that Mrs. Starbuck came to him a long time ago and consulted him concerning a new scheme of religion which had taken root in her mind and for the promulgation of which she expected to establish the colony at Cazadero.

ABOUT THAT COLONY.

"Mrs. Starbuck made me an offer to go to the ranch with several Japanese boys," Kano said, "and form a little colony where they would all live and work together. The erection of a temple was one of her ideas. She talked to me long about our various forms of religion in Japan. I told her that in my country we have eight different forms of Buddhism, besides Shintoism and other forms of religion. It was a combination of Shintoism and Buddhism that Mrs. Starbuck expected to teach, with modifications of some other cults which were too mixed up for me to understand. Her scheme was so attractive that I did not understand just what she expected to include in her religion and philosophy."

MORE ADMISSIONS.

This from the poet and philosopher, Kano, who was sealed twenty-four hours previously when it was sought to get from him some light on his relations with Mrs. Starbuck. And Kano went further. He admitted yesterday that which he had denied the day before, that he was instrumental in sending Yamaguchi to the Cazadero ranch. In this connection Kano said:

"When Henry Yamaguchi came to my home here he came as a hundred others have come. He told me that he was sick. Then I told him about Mrs. Starbuck's beautiful ranch in the mountains and how good she always was to the Japanese boys."

FEARED TROUBLE.

"Some strange feeling seemed to tell me that there would be trouble if the Kendalls and the Japanese tried to work the place together. I spoke to Mrs. Starbuck about it. She only laughed. She told me that Kendall did not care whether the Japanese were there or not."

So Yamaguchi was there or not. Kano said, that he worried many of the Japanese whom he took to the Starbuck ranch to trouble him (Kano) if he got into any trouble with the Kendalls.

Corroborating and explaining the revelations of Mrs. Starbuck's plans to colonize the ranch at Cazadero, John Cox, who was one of the neighbors of the ill-fated Kendall family at Cazadero, made a statement to the Sonoma county authorities today revealing the entire scheme.

HINTS AT PLOT.

According to Cox, J. P. Mayeda, the student of philosophy and dentistry who is Mrs. Starbuck's servant, and who was arrested at her home in Oakland last night on suspicion of being implicated in the murder of the Kendalls, was Yamaguchi's closest friend. Mayeda, according to Cox, often came to the ranch and held long conversations with Yamaguchi. Together they would go to the Cox cabin, which is a little shack about 600 yards from the Starbuck ranch and there on the porch they would dream their dreams, never suspecting that the old man who sat and listened could be interested.

ORIENTAL DREAMS.

Yamaguchi, Mayeda, and another philosophy-ranting Japanese named Kana would gather at the Cox cabin for their talks. It was for the chief of the talks, the earnest of the Kendalls, that they would take the up on the top of Red Mountain. Cox said today, and told what they proposed to do with the Starbuck ranch if their plans did not miscarry. They were going to build a temple of marble and a sanitarium and a great bathhouse at a watering place, just like they have in Japan. "It will be for our people exclusively," Mayeda used to tell me. Mayeda and Yamaguchi, plumed that as soon as the Kendalls had been driven from the ranch they would go back to Japan and gather hordes. They used to go around the mountain which rises itself over the Starbuck ranch, picking out sites for shrines and temples and other buildings. They had found the whole thing out. He cost and all.

FINANCES FOR TEMPLE.

"Mayeda told me that he went to Mrs. Starbuck and told her that the place as they planned it, would cost several thousand dollars. That was too much money, Mrs. Starbuck told them, according to Mayeda. She was backing them financially, Mayeda said, but the high price of the land, cost of lumber and freight was more than she could meet."

And there in a nutshell is the dream of Mrs. Henry Starbuck.

It was this dream that cost the lives of the ill-fated Kendalls. It is not an untenable theory that the Japanese hermit, Yamaguchi, who he saw that his beloved mistress, after months of op-

BERKELEY ATTORNEY CONTINUES PROBING INTO MURDER MYSTERY

Conference With Official Who Is Prosecuting Inquiry Sought By Him

BERKELEY, Aug. 6.—That there is small probability that Joseph Kendall is still alive is the opinion of Attorney H. W. Brunk of this city, who has been most active in the solution of the mystery since he first called the attention of District Attorney Lea to the complexity of Yamaguchi in the case. Brunk bases his opinion upon the letter received by Mrs. Starbuck from Mrs. Churchill, in which it is stated that Kendall was seen by a ropper driving a herd of hogs to Sebastopol. This letter is dated August 1, but there is no mention made therein of the day on which Kendall was seen.

Brunk will ask District Attorney Lea to question Homer closely on this point at the continuation of the inquest as the fixing the date when Kendall was last seen is of the utmost importance. On which the murders are supposed to have been committed there would be hardly any doubt that Kendall is still in existence.

VISITS RANCH AGAIN.

Lea is expected to be in San Francisco tomorrow and Brunk will meet him for a conference. Brunk attempted to get into communication with Lea by telephone, but was unable to reach him as he had gone to Cazadero ranch again.

Brunk has acted as attorney for Mrs. Starbuck only since May 10 of this year, when she engaged him to bring suit against the Kendalls.

On June 7 two suits were commenced in the Sonoma county courts, one an action in ejectment and the other a suit to replevin personal property. On June 27 the Kendalls' demurrer to these suits was heard and overruled by Judge Mayeda. For some time past the courts have been ready to set trial and that is their present status.

WOMAN HYSTERICAL.

In regard to the alleged inconsistencies in Mrs. Starbuck's statement about the disappearance of Yamaguchi at her home on the evening of July 25 Brunk states that it is his opinion that Mrs. Starbuck has been in a hysterical condition and would be liable to make slight discrepancies in statements made at different times. He stated that she was very nervous when he called at her home on the morning of July 25, in response to a telephone message. She was greatly worried about the story told by the pression, harassing and tyrannical, had failed to drive the obnoxious Kendalls from her land, had resolved in the blindness of her zeal to take upon herself the burden of ridding her of the worry that he knew oppressed her.

JAP'S VALUE OF LIFE.

"In the Japanese philosophy, the value of human life is low. Centuries of inherited tradition have implanted in the soul of the Japanese a magnified idea of the evanescence of human life. No real Japanese would hesitate for a second to give up his life for his country."

"It is not beyond the realm of possibility that the Japanese Yamaguchi killed the entire Kendall family to relieve Mrs. Starbuck of the worry and annoyance of their existence and to pave the way for the realization of the dream that he and his fellow Japanese dreamers shared with her—the establishment of a new religion in the recesses of the mountains above her ranch."

THE YELLOW PERIL.

How completely Mrs. Starbuck, like the ill-fated Gladys Emory and other white women who have become entangled with Japanese, had fallen under the dominance of the yellow spell of mysti-

SLY MURDERER, YAMAGACHI, IS VICTOR IN WAR OF WITS

Slayer of the Kendall Family Has Disappeared as Completely as if the Earth Had Swallowed Him; Many Theories Advanced

The cunning of the Oriental; the shrewd, cool, calculating, ever-cautious, yet ever-daring, energetic and sly Japanese, pitted in a battle of wits against the best officers on the Pacific coast—and, so far, the Japanese has won.

Today Yamaguchi, murderer of three Americans—father, mother and son—roams free. So far this man whose brutal, fiendish deed has shocked the entire nation, has not felt the hand of the law; the same hand which mercilessly followed Grippen across the ocean and placed him in a cell.

Instead the quiet apparition, little brown man, who dipped his hands in the life-blood of three Americans and then fed their flesh to the hogs, looks free; free to come and go, for he has shown that his cunning is far more than equal to that of the trained officers who have been detailed to run him down.

UNTIRING ENERGY SHOWN.

Since the first news of the awful murder in the lonely ranch house was received at the police station these officers have worked with untiring energy. Day and night they have followed clues. The slightest threads have been traced, yet each has led to nothing. Not a detail that could possibly be picked up but has been examined, studied and investigated, yet not a single fact has been ascertained which would give a clue to the whereabouts of Yamaguchi, murderer, fiend and sly.

There is not a nook or corner in the Japanese settlement of Oakland, San Francisco and neighboring towns but what has been explored by the police, not a dark or lonesome spot that has not been examined. By day and night the officers have followed clues, and often while in some apparently deserted spot they are startled by the sudden appearance of some person passing slyly by.

HUNT IS FRUITLESS.

A sudden command to halt—always instantly obeyed—a close examination and the officer is compelled to allow his captive to go—he is not Yamaguchi. Yet all the time the officer knows that this same Jap on whose shoulder he had placed his hand is really a spy and that every move he has made has been watched so Yamaguchi may be warned and cautioned.

Each Jap spoken to—man or woman—answers the same. They cannot understand English. Interpreters have been taken and several have been hauled to the police station and there questioned. Yet not one fact has been learned that serves to aid the police in their quest. It is a battle of wits, with the odds in favor of the fiendish Jap murderer.

CLAIM HE IS DEAD.

Certain persons have said that Yamaguchi has followed the Oriental custom and ended his life.

"Yamaguchi is dead," they say. "His honor has been assailed and he was a true Japanese."

But the police do not believe that Yamaguchi is dead; they do not think he has committed suicide. Neither do they believe that he allied the three white persons for the purpose of robbery. They say there is some hidden mystery, at which they hint, but hesitate to express in words, and when these officers would give much to unravel.

Was it revenge for some personal slight offered him? they ask, and for a time they worked along this line. But they soon found that they were on the wrong track. So far as they were able to learn no personal slight had ever been offered Yamaguchi by any of the Kendalls. At least none that would serve as a motive for such a horrible crime.

Did Yamaguchi feel that he was aiding his friends in slaying the trio? That is the question the police would like to have answered. They feel it is the question which, when answered, will give the motive for the terrible crime.

Japanese and said to Brunk that she knew that nothing had happened to the Kendalls.

Brunk continued:

INVESTIGATED MATTER.

"Captain Peterson came to the Starbuck home while I was in consultation with Mr. and Mrs. Starbuck in relation to the matter of Mayeda and found in what was a great error, that judgment, his arrest was an error, that he had been working to Mr. Starbuck in his Oakland home continuously for some months, that it was an impossibility for him to have been out of around Cazadero."

I visited Mayeda in company with Mr. Starbuck at the fall so to be sure that he was the Japanese whom I had seen frequently at Mrs. Starbuck's home. I have no theory concerning his arrest. I think, however, if it were as I identified him as being that of Yamaguchi, no doubt, were honest in their opinion, but the fact still remains, in my judgment that Mayeda has not been out of the city for several months.

"Mr. and Mrs. Starbuck seem to have no disposition to withhold any information which they might have relative to this unfortunate affair and I regret exceedingly that they have been drawn out so much publicly on the matter. I have no opinion now, regard them as honorable people in every way."

"I received a telephone message from District Attorney Lea of Sonoma county, at midnight last evening in which he said that it was his opinion that there had been a crime committed of an atrocious character and that further investigation was being made."

Yamaguchi and philosophy was demonstrated in Mrs. Starbuck's home today. Straight from the prison cell in which he had spent the night on suspicion of complicity in the Kendall murders, John Mayeda went back to his prosaic duties in the kitchen of the Starbuck home.

So thoroughly saturated has Mrs. Starbuck become with the occult influence of her Japanese friends that Mayeda found her door wide open to him, and he went about his work as if nothing had happened.

"It was preposterous," Mrs. Starbuck said to one visitor, "that any suspicion should have fastened on Mayeda. He is a highly educated Japanese gentleman, a deep student of philosophy and the son of a baron."

In the eyes of her friends and all those who have studied the Kendall murder mystery so far as it has been revealed Mrs. Starbuck stands out as the victim of a great human tragedy, the inevitable sacrifice which any effort to ward off the Orient and the Occident demands.

Mrs. Starbuck Very Friendly With Jap

SANTA ROSA, Aug. 6.—On June 27, when one of her suits against the Kendalls involving the ranch property at Cazadero was on trial in the superior court here the great friendliness exhibited by Mrs. Margaret Starbuck toward Henry Yamaguchi, the suspected murderer, attracted much attention and comment among those who saw the smartly dressed woman sitting in the court room listening and chatting with the Japanese.

On Saturday the conversation would become almost as the man and the woman would bend over and almost cooed for the Kendalls. The Kendalls, two chatting and laughing and jokingly asked Attorney R. M. Soto, who was associated with Attorney Brunk for Mrs. Starbuck.

"What did old Aoki come from?" Soto called Attorney Brunk's attention. It was noticeable that in a few minutes the Japanese left the court room.

ORDERED FROM PLACE.

Attorney Brunk said the Japanese was present to testify that Tom Kendall would not allow any of Mrs. Starbuck's employees to come to the place and that he had been ordered.

Illness of the Mrs. Grande laundress upon which Mayeda was arrested in Oakland admitted to Assistant District Attorney Lloyd that this afternoon that only excuse was that he "was mistaken."

SUSPECTED MURDER.

Mrs. William King, wife of Supervisor William King of Cazadero, heard of the disappearance of the Kendalls at Monday and instantly she was seized with fears that they had been murdered. Some that she had been thinking that he had been on Monday thinking that he had been on Monday and left instructions for it to be given to Kendall. The King and Kendall family were very friendly. Tom Kendall told King that he knew his father, John Kendall, would come to assist in the Kendall family on the ranch had been involved had given rise to her fears.

Supervisor King, who was one of the last men over to speak to Tom Kendall in Cazadero on Saturday, July 23, said today he had promised to come to the King ranch the next day and get the Kendalls. He did not come, and some agents he thought that he had been on Monday thinking that he had been on Monday and left instructions for it to be given to Kendall. The King and Kendall family were very friendly. Tom Kendall told King that he knew his father, John Kendall, would come to assist in the Kendall family on the ranch had been involved had given rise to her fears.

Trainmen Near Death When Engines Collide

RICHMOND, Aug. 6.—The crews of two Santa Fe locomotives, consisting of four men, narrowly escaped death at noon yesterday when two engines met in a head-on collision at the Avenue street crossing in this city. The engine driven by fireman of each engine leaped to safety a fraction of a second before the locomotives crashed together. Those who were injured were Engineer David Kite and C. H. Graham and Fireman William Johnson and A. Lang. The failure of the air brake system has been applied a delegate to the Mississippi Commercial congress, which meets at San Antonio, Tex., in November next.

THE KNAVE

When Traveling
Beware of the Hard Luck
Story

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Charles Ro to Peters has made a success in London. His exhibition has attracted the attention of the critics and, what is far more important, he has been selling pictures—some of them for over $2000 each. That is not enough. Now he is coming back to his Monterey home for a time.

This reminds me of the time when Peters was far from successful or recognized. Things financial were very black for him. With Charlie Dickman he made up an exhibition at the Bohemian Club and the two put in their very best canvases. But somehow the purchasers did not flock in. Reputation had not yet been made, and reputation is the magnet that draws the picture buyer.

"Well, Charlie, this is bound to be a sale," said Dickman one day with a gleam in his eye.

"Doesn't look like it," replied Peters gloomily.

"Well, if we don't sell ourselves the Sheriff will sell us, so it's bound to be a sale."

And now if that exhibition were put up again the pictures would sell right and left, for both men have made good in the eyes of the world.

The Real Girl for Fisher

The glimpse behind the scenes is always a delight, and here is a little peek for you on Harrison Fisher, foremost of American artists, among those who make a specialty of drawing beautiful women. You know the Examiner has been exploiting his search for a western type and he has had hundreds of photographs submitted to him and other hundreds of applications to pose as his models.

Just now he is pledged to do a girl for the Saturday Evening Post—a drawing he must get off next week. So he said to Hag Patigian, the sculptor:

"Hag, have you a model I can use?"

"Yes, I have one that will just suit you—a fine type."

"Why don't you use some of these society girls who are supposed to be such great beauties?" asked a bystander.

"Oh they don't know how to pose," was the contemptuous reply.

And so after all we have to depend on the professional models for our "beauties." By the way, one of the finest models in San Francisco is pockmarked, nearly blind and stone deaf. But from the face down she offers more beauty for the sculptor than her more facially favored sisters.

Some New Light on Shakespeare

Anybody would think that the controversy over Shakespeare and the authorship of his plays had about exhausted everything that could be said on the subject. But we are soon to have an entertaining talk on the subject that will present some new views in two senses of the word.

Joseph D. Redding, perhaps the most widely talented man we have yet developed in California, has been through the Shakespeare country and the Shakespeare manuscripts with a camera and has made up a fine lot of lantern slides. These he is to show at the University of California and with it has a lecture that is very simply convincing that nobody but Shakespeare himself could have written the wondrous plays that bear his name. The whole will be treated in the free conversational style that has made him the hit of the clubs in his after-dinner speeches in San Francisco, New York, London and Paris.

One Way to Get Money

George Fish, formerly one of your leading Oakland merchants, has brought back from Paris a tale of an attempt to raise the wind at the expense of one of our local newspaper men. Fish was at a hotel where were stopping the mother and sister of Attorney William H. Metson. One morning there came in the mail a letter to Mrs. Metson saying that Ned Hamilton of San Francisco was sick in Paris and in financial difficulties. Would Mrs. Metson send him some money?

The good lady was about to comply with the request, though her acquaintance with Hamilton was of the slightest, when Fish interposed:

"Why, if Ned Hamilton were ill and in need here in Paris all he would have to do would be to go to the agency of the Hearst papers or cable to New York or San Francisco and he could get all the money he wants. Let's send a decoy letter, get him to the hotel here and see what it's all about. It may be one of Ned's jokes."

So Mrs. Metson sent the decoy letter, and a man showed up to get the money. He was about as much like Hamilton as a shoe is like a shipplaster. Fish immediately jumped him and went to the hotel proprietor to have the fellow arrested; but he ran like the wind and got away. Hamilton hadn't been out of California. The incident should be a warning to tourists not to fall for the harrowing tales of Californians in distress in Paris who need money to pay doctors and get home.

That Symphony Orchestra

Henry Hadley, one of the greatest of American composers, has been in San Francisco again, and again we are shamed by the thought that this city has no symphony orchestra. Hadley leads a symphony orchestra in Seattle and has made a success of it. We haven't been able to keep one going here.

The Seattle business men got together, said they would have a big orchestra, went down into their pockets and sent east for the best leader to be had. Victor Herbert recommended Hadley, and those Seattle business men agreed to pay him $9000 a season for two seasons of about thirty concerts each and to provide him with seventy musicians.

Well, the first season is over and the second about to begin. Those Seattle men are trying to get Hadley to sign up for five seasons more at a decidedly increased salary.

Now, there is a tentative scheme on foot in this city to get up a symphony orchestra. Some talk has been had as to the money subscription, but the scheme requires an enthusiast who will devote three months' time to rousing interest and selling tickets. Now that we have settled down after our fire troubles we should be able to do a little something toward music in a big way.

Will We Have Some Mexican Horrors?

An intelligent American who recently returned from Mexico tells me that the entire country is seething with impending trouble. He has no idea that anything will break out as long as Diaz is alive. The old dictator has things in hand and seems entirely able to keep them there. But he is 86 years old and cannot live forever. Then what?

"The people will not accept Vice-President Ramon Corral as the successor of Diaz without a hard struggle," says my friend. "There will be risings of the populace in many places. The truth is, I should not be at all surprised to see enacted in many cities, horrors like those of the French revolution. I don't think that once the iron hand of Diaz is removed the people will longer stand for the exactions of the local officials. With the uprisings may come American intervention, and that is what is generally expected by the more intelligent people and generally hoped for by all the grunges who own property in the so-called Mexican 'republic,' the last of the absolute monarchies."

Money in Cheap Hotels

While some of San Francisco's magnificent first-class hotels are making but small return on the large capital invested, the third-class houses are nearly all doing well. One chain of hostleries of this class is making considerable fortunes for its owners. The question this condition invites is: "Why does it exist?" A hotel man in reply to this query said that while there were many millions invested in the big first-class hotels, the third-class houses represented a comparatively small investment in rentals or construction and furnishings. The inferior class hotels are frequently over-crowded, one I have in mind housing as many as 650 guests at a time which is about as large a number as the Palace accommodates. This is accomplished by the small third-class place putting as many as two and even three guests in a small room, charging each $1 to $1.50 a day for such crowded accommodations. The small house thus receives as much and more for its crowded and inferior accommodations as does an architecturally perfect and handsomely furnished first-class house.

The Palace Hotel charges a casual transient $2.50 a day for room and bath. Third-class hotels charge the transient patron from 75 cents to $1.50 a day for being permitted to share a small room with one or two others. As to the bath—well, that may or may not be in demand, and if it be it is of course "extra." For a small room frequently the third-class house receives more, in the aggregate, than does the first-class hotel. It is one of the ways in which the inferior grade hotel often makes more money, proportionately, than does the first-class hotel.

The losses of a third-class hotel from non-payment of bills by guests are insignificant, as compared with the losses by a first-class hostelry. The old Palace Hotel carried whole families for years without receiving any payments from them. In the days of the mining markets these families had represented great wealth, but with the return of the wheel of fortune they had lost all. The managers of the hotel disliked to order them out, and then the wheel of fortune at its next turn might bring wealth to them again.

The third-class hotel has no such pensioners and its losses from escapes without paying are but few and small.

League Men Not in for Money

The Lincoln-Roosevelt League is all "split-up-the-bank" because of internal troubles and bickerings. A story comes from the southland that this difficulty had its origin in the selection of a candidate for Governor and has been on the increase ever since. Political gossip has it that Chester Rowell of Fresno, State organizer of the league, sought to name the candidate and had as his first choice W. R. Davis, former Mayor of Oakland. Earle of the Los Angeles Express, who is reputed to dictate the policy of the league in Southern California, was opposed to the selection of Davis and there was a skirmish that resulted in the choosing of Johnson. But still Earle was dissatisfied, believing that Rowell had had more voice in the choice of Johnson than he who led the southern contingent that named about all the rest of the ticket.

This feeling of rivalry became intensified with each passing day. It is said that Earle had Rowell's wings clipped so that his duties as a State organizer were assumed by a committee, the Fresno editor being thus relieved of those grave responsibilities. To add to the acidity of the situation it is related that Dickson, the outside political agent of Earle, would occasionally "trim" Rowell a bit with a very sharp lecture in respect to his duties and the advisability of the man from the resin belt confining himself strictly to the small political chores to which he had been assigned by the Earle cabal.

These trysts are said to have been very distasteful to Rowell and it is told that he has chafed under them and is still very restless. The outcome of these internal dissensions of the league will be made manifest at the primary next week and a surprise for some candidates high up on the league ticket is predicted.

Ellery's Joy Ride

State Engineer Nat Ellery, who aspires to the office of Governor, continues the unique candidate of this campaign. He has almost concluded the most complete canvass of the State that has been made by any of the aspirants for the Governorship. His itineraries have been carefully arranged, his advance agent has gone ahead to arrange for his meetings and he himself has given much personal attention to press publicity. Ellery appears equally earnest whether he be addressing an audience of seven or seven hundred persons and the assemblages that listened to his claims to political preeminence have more frequently been of the former number than the latter.

Ellery's campaign managers take his candidacy as seriously as does that aspirant himself. They are possessed with the belief that something will happen to make the present State Engineer Governor of California. What that something is they do not even forecast, but at the meantime Ellery continues his political joy ride by automobile over the State, while his managers invest in expensive electric signs and other costly campaign devices to give publicity to his candidacy.

The Hodcarriers Win

The hodcarriers' strike, although brief, and amicably settled so that the men have resumed work, has had a most damaging effect upon building in San Francisco. Capital from the outside and from within has been given another scare with the result that a recent weekly resume of the real estate and building market recorded but one application for a building permit and that was for a structure of minor importance.

The hodcarriers, who, by the way, are misnamed, for they no longer carry hods on their shoulders and climb ladders, the latter having been superseded by the hoist and the hod by a wheelbarrow which, after being hoisted to the floor desired is wheeled to the beards on which its contents of brick or mortar, dumped beside the workman, won every demand made by them.

It has been the practice of the hodcarriers to go to work in the morning fifteen minutes earlier than the bricklayers and also at ten minutes before 1 p. m., the object being to have the layers supplied with bricks and mortar when they start in to work. The hodcarriers will now quit work fifteen minutes before noon and ten minutes before 5 p. m., giving them an eight-hour day. Possibly the most important point gained by the hodcarriers was the making universal use of the rule that when, for any reason work is discontinued after they begin the morning, they are to be paid for a full day.

Where San Francisco Loses

The recent action of the local Grand Jury in adopting resolutions urging the enforcement of the provision of the San Francisco charter that requires city employees to live on this side and not on the other side of the bay, raises no new point nor does it precipitate any new line of discussion. Similar action has been taken in the past in connection with teachers in the San Francisco School Department who live in Oakland and other transbay points. City Attorney Percy V. Long championed the cause of the non-resident teachers and held that the provision of the charter requiring them to live in this city did not operate as to the school department.

The revival of the question has caused much discussion both pro and con. One point raised is that those living in Oakland, Alameda and other transbay cities are still members of this community in that by a financial evolution all the money they spend in Oakland or other cities comes back to San Francisco, in that the household supplies, clothing and other articles purchased over the bay once came from a wholesale house in San Francisco and the money of the small purchaser eventually found its way back to San Francisco, anyway.

I have met Oakland merchants who scout this version of the situation. They tell me that they buy directly from the east and on as good, if not better terms, than the San Francisco merchant, and consequently are able to offer special inducements to purchasers. It is a fact that many San Francisco householders make purchases of certain lines of goods in Oakland, being able to do so cheaper there than here. The receipts from this source and from commuters runs into many millions annually which is the gain of the transbay and peninsula cities and San Francisco's financial loss.

A $2 Crowd

The record in rates for club indorsements of political candidates was made last week. The aspirant for political honors is high up on the State ticket. His young campaign manager is active and enthusiastic in the canvass for his principal. One evening he attended a meeting of a club held in a transbay city. The manager hoped to secure a good word for his candidate if not an absolute indorsement of his candidacy.

I met the C. M. on his return to San Francisco late that night. Evidently he was suffering from either a deep disgust or a troublesome conscience and possibly both. He told of his evening with the club. "They were the worst and toughest I ever saw. There were about two hundred of them. Of course I went over to see what I could do for my friend. Did I get what I was after? Oh, yes, I slipped $2 to the chairman and it was all right. My man was unanimously endorsed with great enthusiasm. But I want no more of that kind of work. I will confine myself to headquarters in the future. Good heavens, but it was a tough lot—ugh!"

And thus was the campaign rate of $2 or 1 cent per capita for tough club indorsements introduced. Again—ugh!

Hayes and Uncle Joe

The contest between Congressman E. A. Hayes, incumbent, and Mayor Charles W. Davison for the nomination for Representative of the Fifth California District in Congress is becoming interesting—even exciting. Davison, who is backed by Union Labor, is making a hard fight and Hayes realizes that he has a battle on his hands, such as he never has had before. Both candidates are somewhat in the talk line and each night finds them addressing audiences.

Davison is running as a straight Republican and supports in his speeches both the National and State administrations of that party. Hayes is in the insurgent camp and takes issue with Speaker Joe Cannon and objects to the House rules, which attitude has caused some of his hearers to become reminiscent. Hayes will have served three terms in Congress with the conclusion of the present, and is now seeking to be returned for a fourth time, which he thinks will put him in line for the United States Senatorship.

His present attacks on Cannon have caused men with memories to recall Hayes' second canvass for Congress. At that time the combative Cannon was also engaged in a scurrilous and Hayes pleaded with his audiences that it was necessary that he be returned to support the Speaker in his difficulties. "Uncle Joe and I are warm personal friends," the Congressman would confide to his auditors, "and it is necessary that you send me back to support him." It was an almost pathetic appeal for "Uncle Joe," but now all that is changed and Hayes wants to be sent back that he may continue his leadership of the insurgents and aid them in their efforts to lift the scalp of "Uncle Joe," his erstwhile dear friend—but no more.

Defense of a Clergyman

A friend has called my attention to a remarkable letter by Chaplain John E. Dallam of the Twelfth Infantry, U. S. A. It is one of the aftermaths of the suicide of Second Lieutenant C. M. Janney of the same regiment in the Philippines several months ago. Janney's widow, the former Madeline McKissick, of this city, is now on her way here from Manila. Janney committed suicide in the apartments of Lieutenant Colonel Ames while he and his wife were the dinner guests of Ames. The latter has been court-martialed and disgraced twelve points. Chaplain Dallam was also court-martialed and his sentence was a public reprimand by the commanding officer. Dallam offended because he criticized Captain F. D. Wickham of the regiment. Wickham had been informed of the tragedy soon after it took place. He did not offer any assistance, he being represented as saying that "he did not wish to be mixed up with the matter." Dallam was court-martialed for "characterizing Wickham's conduct as 'heartless and cowardly.'" Following his public

Nominate Stanton

HON. PHILIP A. STANTON is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. Other good men have been mentioned. All have their friends. The nomination of HON. PHILIP A. STANTON will please the greater number and will offend none. He has behind him the strong support of Southern California. The section of the state has not had a candidate for Governor since 1898.

The nomination of HON. PHILIP A. STANTON will unite the party, unify the sections of the state and make for the best interests of all concerned.

HON. PHILIP A. STANTON is the ideal candidate for the office. He is a plain man of the people. He has been successful in the conduct of his own private affairs. He is a farmer and a home builder. He believes in the conservation of our natural resources and he advocates good roads. He has served faithfully eight years in the Legislature and has been a member of the state senate for two years. He is a man of high character and high ability.

He is in direct line of promotion for the gubernatorial chair. His selection will be to the honor of the Republican party and to the advantage of the state irrespective of party, section or class.

Republican voters of California, you owe your votes to HON. PHILIP A. STANTON for Governor. Cast your ballot for him at the primaries on Tuesday next.

New Era Dawning for Oakland.

Oakland is on the eve of a big boom in building and in conjunction with it exceptional activity in realty trading, or all of the signs of the times are out of joint and misleading. During the next six months, for example, municipal buildings and privately owned modern business blocks will be in course of erection costing in the aggregate approximately $4,000,000, to be quickly followed by a number of others of a similar type which will cost $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 more.

The effect of this building activity cannot be over-estimated. It will add immensely to neighboring property values. It will inevitably excite a desire on the part of investors in business property to acquire ownership in adjacent territory for investment in real property located in the central business district of a growing and prosperous city like Oakland is rightly regarded by every capitalist as a gilt-edged proposition. Furthermore, one building improvement of magnitude is quickly followed by others of like character.

We have witnessed the contagious effects of such improvements during the past three years in the expansion of Oakland's retail business district. In no part of the city has this fact been more notably demonstrated than in that section lying west of Washington street and north of Twelfth. While blocks previously covered with dwellings of a cheap and inferior type are today sites for magnificent modern business structures towering high in the air, some of them completed and devoted to the trade which the extraordinary growth of Oakland and its environments has developed, making it one of the most profitable trading centers on the Pacific Coast, and others of a corresponding type are in course of construction. On the eastern side of Broadway north of Ninth street for a distance of many blocks eastward similar changes have been witnessed and building improvements of equal importance are now in progress, while a number of others will be started in that section within the next few weeks. In the warehouse district adjacent to the southern water front permanent warehouse construction has been started, and contemporaneous with the construction of the new seawall and municipal wharves in the same section other permanent structures for warehousing are sure to be built to meet the wants which the new facilities for commerce will create.

From this brief survey of existing conditions and nearby prospects it must be apparent to the dullest comprehension that reality in a vast area of the older part of the city is sure to feel strongly the impulse of the material changes which are in progress and in course of evolution and respond to them buoyantly. A new and more prosperous era for Oakland is certainly dawning.

A Queer Complaint From San Francisco.

The Architect and Engineer, published in San Francisco, laments that the prize for drawing plans for Oakland's new city hall should have been awarded to an eastern firm "instead of being given to San Francisco architects." Oakland architects did not count. Nor the city of Oakland, either, apparently, for the Architect and Engineer remarks disconcertedly that the publication of the award to a New York firm gave Oakland "some free advertising." The paper complains that two eastern architects were appointed on the committee, while San Francisco had only one man on the committee. The fact that no Oakland architect was appointed on the committee and no Oakland firm admitted to the competition seemingly appeared entirely proper and in accord with the eternal fitness of things. The fact that the conditions of the competition were framed up by a non-resident of Oakland with sympathies entirely alien to this city did not concern the Architect and Engineer at all. That paper is only interested because San Francisco was not permitted to dominate a competition for the erection of an Oakland public building. Says the Architect and Engineer:

"It has been said, and perhaps with a grain of truth, that the Oakland city officials preferred having the first prize go to an eastern firm because it would mean some outside advertising for the bay city. Had a San Francisco architect been given the work it is very probable that no attention would have been given the contest by the eastern papers. As it was, the New York press announced the result of the competition under conspicuous headlines, and Oakland got some free advertising.

"It was probably this desire to gain notoriety that prompted the Oakland officials to hold such a pretentious competition, and it may also have induced the Mayor and others on the committee, when preparing the list of eligibles, to name two eastern architects to one San Francisco member of the profession. In this the committee laid itself open to just criticism, for if it did not care to include more San Francisco architects it might, at least, have selected one or two good men from Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle. Even Oakland was overlooked in the scramble for the big eastern men."

Pique at the failure of any San Francisco firm to win the first prize is aggravated by the reflection that Oakland has gained "some notoriety in the east" from the competition.

There are other matters worthy of consideration in this connection, but they appear to have escaped the attention of the Architect and Engineer. The beauty and utility of the plans accepted are really the chief matter of concern to those who are having the edifice erected and who will have to pay the cost of construction—namely, the people of Oakland. It is conceded that the accepted plans call for an imposing and unique building admirably adapted to the purpose for which it is to be used. Hence Oaklanders will not feel greatly aggrieved that some San Francisco architect did not get the job. They will be still less disposed to complain if some free advertising abroad comes with the building or feel dissatisfied because San Francisco architects are sore.

County Auditor Lutgen's Record.

When County Auditor Lutgen was appointed by the Board of Supervisors to fill the vacancy in the office created by the forced resignation of George S. Pierce he found the affairs of the Auditor's office in a badly muddled condition owing to the carelessness or incompetency of his predecessor. At a personal expense of approximately $1000 Mr. Lutgen employed expert accountants to assist him in unraveling the tangle and bringing order out of chaos. The affairs of the office are now, as a result, in perfect condition.

Mr. Lutgen, who is a candidate for election to succeed himself, has proved his superior capacity and fitness for the post which he has filled with such unquestioned ability under the most trying conditions. He is a man of strict integrity and fine character, stands high in the community and is an experienced accountant of recognized ability. We are confident that the electors of the county will recognize his worth when they come to cast their ballots at the polls and, as a fitting reward for the valuable services he has rendered during the brief period he has been County Auditor, elect him to serve them as such during the next four years. He has certainly made an exceptionally fine record.

HOW SMALL THIS WORLD!

—LOS ANGELES DAILY TIMES.

Fruit Standardization.

The campaign of education which State Horticultural Commissioner Jeffrey has carried on during the past two years to teach the fruitgrowers of the State the value of standardizing their products in packing for market is this year bearing good results. Standardization has been put to a test in El Dorado county and proved of the highest value to the fruitgrowers. Condemnation of an unstandardized pack of fruit after official inspection has resulted in the failure of the packer to market it, while fruit that has been carefully standardized in the packing has in every case found ready sale wherever marketed at top prices.

El Dorado fruitgrowers who have followed the plan of fruit-packing which Commissioner Jeffrey urged all to adopt have made money this year. Their profits have been materially increased also because the yield of their orchards is large and the demand for standardized fruit in eastern markets is steady and strong.

California fruitgrowers have undoubtedly suffered severe losses in the past, owing to the lack of care in packing and a failure to pack only selected fruit. The practice of employing selected fruit in the top layers of the box and stuffing the middle of it with inferior fruit brought many California fruitgrowers into disrepute and injured their own business. Those fruitgrowers, however, who were careful in the selection and packing of their fruit crop and marketed it under their brand made reputation and wealth. A notable example of this class of fruitgrowers was the late Dr. Strentzel of Alhambra, Contra Costa county. He learned early the value of standardizing his pack. Every box of fruit bearing his brand was in demand as soon as it reached market and brought the highest market price, for it was known by the buyer that it was honestly sorted and packed. Dr. Strentzel's orchards became famous, therefore, throughout the country.

Standardization means really nothing more or less than honesty in packing and the good results which the El Dorado county fruitgrowers are obtaining in the marketing of their crops is practical evidence that it pays to be honest in fruit-packing as in any other business.

The interest bearing school fund of the State of Texas contains over $64,000,000. Nearly $17,000,000 of this is in city county and school district bonds. The remainder is in land notes drawing from 3 to 10 per cent interest. This fund yields an annual income of over $3,500,000. This splendid endowment for public education was created by reserving all unsold public lands in Texas for school purposes.

PROGRESS

We are sending word by wireless,
We've a cooker that is fireless,
The inventors all are tireless
In their efforts to invent things which shall be both strange and new;
We have airships that are gasless,
We have railways that are passless,
But a country that was classless,
Though we all hate snobs like poison, would appear to very few.
We have palmrooms that are heatless,
We have dinners that are meatless,
We have wheat pits that are wheatless,
And the day no doubt is coming when the horse will disappear;
We have wagons that are shaftless,
We've a White House that is Taftless,
But a city that is graftless
Seems to be a thing they haven't built upon this hemisphere.

FRANK C. JORDAN WAGES POLITICAL WAR IN VERSE

The following statement was issued by the campaign managers of Frank C. Jordan, candidate for Secretary of State:
STATEMENT NO. 1.
Other statements in this form will be issued from time to time as campaign progresses.

FRANK C. JORDAN.

Born in Shasta county, April 3, 1860. Nominated by Alameda County Republican Convention for County Clerk, August, 1898, after independent fight and elected. Re-elected County Clerk 1898. Nominated for Clerk of Supreme Court by Republican State Convention August 27, 1902, after independent fight and elected. Plurality 32,000.

I promise to give constant personal attention to the duties devolving upon me. To give an economical, progressive, faithful administration. To give all alike, courteous, accommodating attention—to serve well all the people.

With only my courage and the loyalty of friends to support me I have for twelve months been engaged in this, to me, most vital contest, and am fighting to these lines:

"Did you tackle the trouble that came your way.

With a resolute heart and cheerful?

Or hide your face from the light of day

With a craven soul and fearful?

Oh, a trouble's a ton, or a trouble's an ounce,

Or a trouble is what you make it;

And it isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts,

But only how did you take it?

You are beaten to earth? Well, well, what's that?

Come up with a smiling face.

It's nothing against you to fall down flat,

But to lie there—that's disgrace.

The harder you're thrown, why the higher you bounce;

Be proud of your backbent eye.

It isn't the fact that you're felled that counts;

It's how did you fight and why?

And though you be down to the death, what then—

If you battled the best you could?

If you played your part in the world of men,

Why the critic will call it good.

Death comes with a crawl or comes with a pounce,

And whether you're slow or spry.

It isn't the fact that you're dead that counts,

But only how did you die."

Friends over California. I am battling the best I can and you can help me. Will you?

FOR SECRETARY OF STATE.

Twenty Years Ago in Oakland

A testimonial concert to be given to Miss Lizzie Boyer is now under way and it is expected that there will be a large number of tickets sold for the event.

Secretary Theobald of the Humane Society has sworn out a warrant for the arrest of Dr. Meek for battery on his nephew. It seems that the boy stole a dollar, hit-treated his mother, and when he returned home, Dr. Meek thrashed him. The neighbors thought the whipping too severe. The doctor has been arrested and has given bail in the sum of $30.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Church of the Advent will give a tea tomorrow in the parlors of the church, at the corner of East Sixteenth street and Twelfth avenue.

Charlie Dooley, the favorite baseball player, is back again in this city and is connected once more with the Colonels. The Oaklanders will play at Emeryville tomorrow afternoon and Dooley will play first and Casey will pitch.

After filing a complaint for divorce from his wife, Ella May Whetten, on the ground of desertion, Frank M. Blethen, son of ex-Mayor Blethen of this city, is served with an answer by his wife to the effect that the charge is unfounded; at least, to the extent that the desertion did not take place without justification.

Sheriff Hale had arrested John Kimball and W. T. Thomas as deputies.

It will be two months before the main lake sewer is completed. The next piece of work will be the building of the Commerce street sewer, which will cost about $40,000. Bids will be called for at the next meeting of the council.

A good-looking highwayman secures admission to the home of Mrs. Cummins, who resides on Madison near Eleventh street, and demands of her one dollar or her life. There is no help within reach of the woman, and the latter hands over the money to the desperado who, straightening a boutonniere on the lapel of his coat, salutes his victim and disappears from the house.

The laying of the corner stone of the First Unitarian church will not take place for two weeks, for the reason that the Masonic bodies which are to take part in the exercises cannot be present before that time.

The efforts of certain scheming politicians to defeat Justice Charles N. Fox for re-nomination are beginning to react. In making the false representations to a club of colored citizens and inducing the club to denounce Justice Fox from false premises, the work of the plotters was exposed.

Roseco S. Gray, son-in-law of Justice C. N. Fox, has been admitted to practice law.

A contract has been recorded whereby the Remondred Brick Company agrees to furnish the material for the construction of a building on Eighth street, near the corner of Washington street, for $15,850.

A petition is in circulation asking the council to provide more school accommodations for the children of this city.

At 2 o'clock this morning Officer Charles Hamerton arrests a burglar hiding in a doorway at the intersection of Eleventh and West streets. This arrest, it is thought, clears away the mystery of the recent burglaries, for the reason that, on the person of the burglar has been found a lot of jewelry which has been identified as belonging to the occupants of houses which have recently suffered from the visits of midnight prowlers.

Dickie Brothers, shipbuilders at Tiburon, will move their plant to Alameda Point, as soon as the vessels which they now have on the ways are completed.

A lease has been placed on record by which August Michel leases to Fred Becker the store on Washington street between Eighth and Ninth streets, for ten years. The rent is to be as follows: For the first two years, $25 per month; for the next four years, $11 per month for the remaining four years, $10 per month.

Catherine Davis, who married J. T. Davis, the Stockton millionaire, by contract still pursues her pitiful husband in the endeavor to compel him to provide for her support and maintenance. The couple lived together for only a couple of weeks when the woman, who the millionaire deserted her and has since evaded all her attempts to compel him to support her.

Women on Guard at Night

NEW YORK.—After a long all night from Justice Carleton of the supreme court a temporary injunction restraining the telephone company from doing business with its work and the will operator to have this made permanent. The neighborhood is determined to keep up the fight, even if it has to stay all night for a week or more.

Girls Are Tarr'd and Ridden on Rail

ATTENTION! This is the result of looking on the part of other girls of the district. Miss Berrywell, aged 21 years, and Laura Chipper, aged 20, of Vandenberg, were both attacked Thursday evening by young men and their clothing stripped from them and they were ridden on a rail through part of the town and thrown off, when they had pulled out on the side walk, were doing more talking than sleeping. Being vivacious and unusually pretty, they soon succeeded in winning the beaux away from the other girls.

MANY ARRESTS ARE MADE FOR BETTING ON BALL GAMES

OAKS AND BEAVERS BATTLE FOR EIGHTEEN INNINGS WITHOUT EVEN A SINGLE RUN

WILLIS, KRAPP AND BOIGE PITCH WONDERFUL BALL

Oakland and Portland Teams Play Eighteen Innings and Neither One Can Make a Run

DARKNESS ended the greatest pitched battle of the year after the Oaks and the Beavers had battled and struggled for eighteen innings and nearly four hours without either side being able to score a run. Not since the record 24 inning 1 to 0 game at Oakland last year have the baseball fans had so much excitement and tenseness crowded into one game. Time and again the men thrown out on the plate on the narrowest of margins and clever plays were so recent that they were lost sight of in the expectancy which each inning brought.

To enumerate the features of this game would fill a volume but it is sufficient to say that never before in the history of the game has there been so much excitement. Ralph Willis was the pitcher for the Oaks and this man was wonderful in his performance. Time and again when it looked as if for him to pitch himself together and by brainy work save his life. His performance was marvellous and one cannot realize the strain that man was under. Still in the fact of the time now, looking obstacles. Willis is a pitcher and as the game went along he seemed to get better. It was truly a wonderful performance. It was truly a wonderful performance. It was truly a wonderful performance.

SHORTER CONTESTS IN THE BOXING GAME WILL PRODUCE PLenty OF EXCITEMENT

KETCHEL BELIEVES TEN-ROUND CONTEST IS BEST

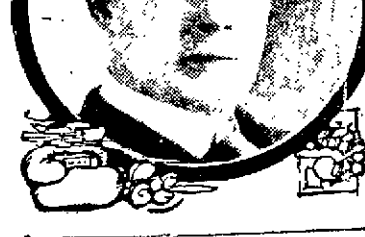

Long Distance Fights Have Been Blamed for the Trouble With Sport, and Many Advocate Shortening of Bouts

By EDDIE SMITH.

IT NOW looks as if one of the reforms that is sure to come to the boxing game will be the shortening of the number of rounds. It is a fact that the constant indulgence in long fights has been a source of trouble to the sport, and many are now advocating the ten-round contest as the best.

Advance of the grand army of pugs taken from famous painting of Napoleon's advance on Moscow. It was this advance that history tells us marked the turning point of Napoleon's career and marked the beginning of his downfall. The leading of the pugs also marks the approaching Waterloo of Jack Johnson, for his advance will be a rapid one along the great white ways of pleasure and idleness.

THE ARTFUL DODGER OF CY YOUNG IS TRULY A CREDIT TO OUR GREAT NATIONAL PASTIME

Huntsmen Not Having the Best of Luck in the Bay Counties.

Scarbeck, the great 185-pound five-pointed star of the bay counties, is a true credit to our great national pastime. He has been hunted for many years, but he has always managed to escape his pursuers.

The artful dodger of the deer family eluded his pursuers until last week, when it was brought to bay on the Luau valley.

It is a double pleasure to make this announcement, because of the fact that the performance of the great pitcher has been a source of pride to the fans of the team.

Some of the shooting fraternity will say that the game is too slow, but the fact is that the game is too fast for the average fan.

MAJORS AND MINORS WILL SOON BEGIN TO GET IN THE DRAFTS

Coast League Will Not Begin to Lose Players Until September 15.

The big league drafting season will open September 1 and continue for two weeks and a half. During this time, the clubs will be busy drafting players from the minor leagues.

Major League National and American. Class A—American Association, Eastern and Western. Class B—Northwestern, Tri-State, New York State, New England, Connecticut, Three-I, Central and California Leagues. Class C—Western Association, Western Canada, Ohio-Pennsylvania, South Atlantic, Virginia and Texas Leagues.

There are twenty-six leagues in the minor leagues, and they range from the Class C leagues to the Class A leagues.

Every player who is drafted from the minor leagues to the major leagues must be under the age of 21.

The practice of farming is prohibited, but it is generally understood that all clubs do this business under various names.

Major leagues may draft from September 1 to September 15; class A clubs from September 15 to October 1; class B from October 1 to October 15; and class C from October 15 to November 1.

JOE GANS IS CALMLY AWAITING THE END OF LIFE TO COME

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6.—Joe Gans has but a few more hours to live. The former lightweight champion has become rapidly worse since he was carried off the track here to his home after his remarkable race with death from Arizona.

As is usual in cases of tuberculosis in advanced stages, Gans is being nursed up by a terrible fever. His temperature today for hours was 105. He is unconscious and apparently in no pain. His mother is in constant attendance at his bedside and the grief of the good woman is pitiable.

Hundreds of telegrams from sporting men throughout the country were received for Gans, but of course none was delivered into his hands.

A physician is at Gans' bedside every minute of the day but can do nothing unless it is to ease the dying man's last hours.

Strong Indications of Big Building Boom and Active Local Realty Market

NEW ERA IN BUILDING IS DAWNING

Erection of the New City Hall and H. C. Capwell Emporium to Have Big Influence

Within the next three months work will begin on the site of the new city hall, and the erection of the vast building which its foundation walls are to be laid will be started. Two months thereafter, the new H. C. Capwell building to be erected on the western half of the block in which the city hall is to be erected will start to rise. The buildings now occupying the eastern half of the block will be removed in order to excavate the portion which that massive structure's foundation will be laid. The race of land, owned by Washington, is now being divided into four lots, the eastern and western streets will become the scene of the greatest building activity. Oakland has never witnessed the two buildings to be erected on it will represent the expenditure of $1,000,000. The plans and specifications for the H. C. Capwell building are all complete. The working plans and specifications for the city hall will be finished by the architect, J. D. P. Works, when the foundation is laid. The building is in a position to advance for construction.

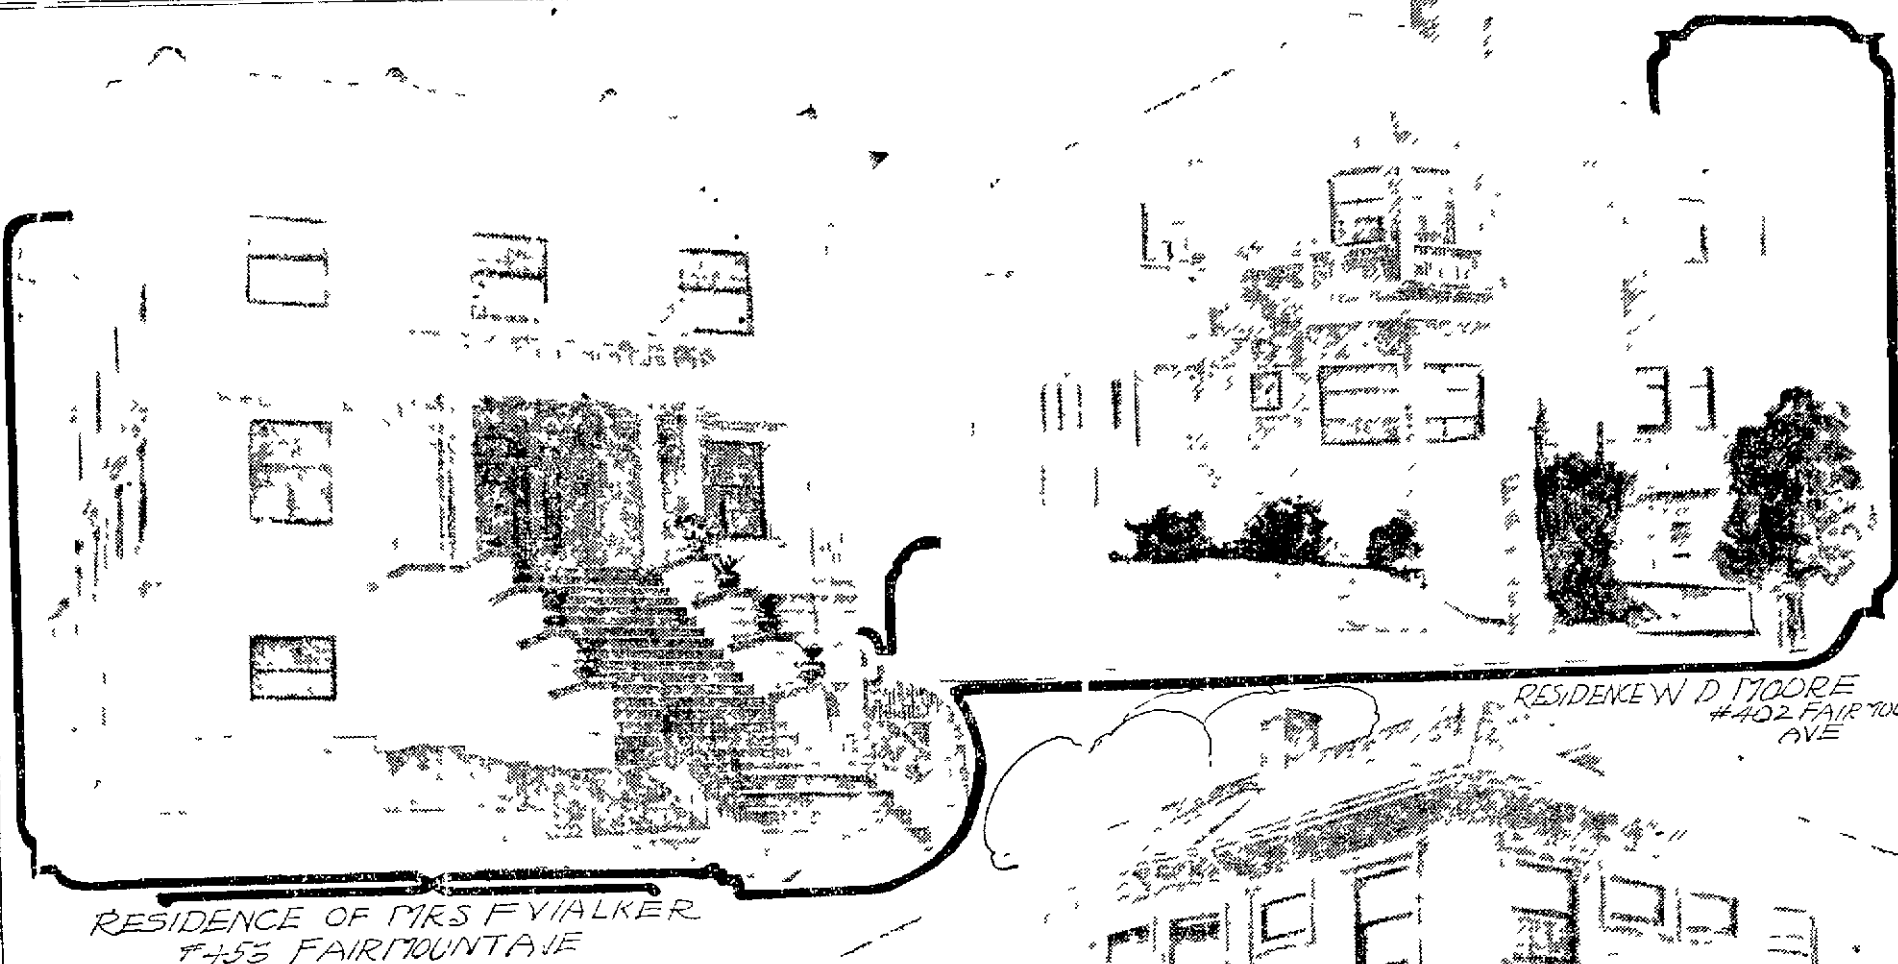

The erection of these two imposing structures will have an important influence over a large section of the city, in need of tributary to the block on which they will stand. Immediately adjacent to it are groups of houses, modern business structures that have been a long time in the making. Several other buildings are in the process of being erected. Modern Business Blocks in Demand

That a great number of modern business blocks are needed in Oakland is well known. Every business man who desires to establish himself in this city, or to expand his business, has sought for a modern building in which to do so. The erection of these two imposing structures will have an important influence over a large section of the city, in need of tributary to the block on which they will stand. Oakland Merchants Own Premises Occupied Special notice has been taken of the profitable character of the trade through the fact that each of the leading mercantile firms in Oakland own the buildings in which they occupy or will be occupying very soon. This fact has been an inspiring object lesson which is all the more noteworthy and effective when a comparison is made with the situation in San Francisco where the leading retailers are mere tenants of the buildings they occupy, paying high rents that they are unable to hand. It is no wonder that big business firms from abroad are desirous to get a footing in a city where trade has produced such profit.

PROSPECTS OF REALTY MARKET

Dealers Are Looking Forward to an Early Period of Exceptional Trading Activity

The realty market in Oakland is in a decidedly healthy condition, and those who are in the business of realty trading are preparing to meet exceptional activity in trading from now on. The central business district is expanding steadily.

Demand for Business Locations

In this district the demand for suitable quarters for business firms who desire to locate in this city is greater than the supply. The situation is clearly explained in the difficulty which the Western Pacific Railroad Company encountered in securing a location for an up-town ticket office. The company's representatives found themselves unable to find a suitable place, and they discovered that the only speedy solution of the problem was to purchase the leasehold in the Mission block held and occupied by a merchant who came here from San Francisco. Western Pacific Passenger Traffic

Another matter on which the realty market of this city is reflecting is the early movement of the Western Pacific line to transfer its passenger traffic from the old Union Pacific building to the new building which will be erected on the corner of 12th and Jackson. The erection of this building will have an important influence over a large section of the city, in need of tributary to the block on which they will stand. with yesterday's advance in that the price of wheat in the foreign markets was on unfavorable news on the other side. For a moment to take profits today, but before the publication of the government report the price of wheat declined of nearly 2¢ or most of yesterday's advance. Primary receipts of grain were very large and the market was very active and expected the most important piece of news today is a report from North Dakota that the threshing returns just received are about 10 bushels per acre, a little less than the great damage was reported here. The great damage was reported here because in June and July some of our letters last week to the farmers when threshing started up the Monday may be a very dull day, but it could be a very profitable one for growing corn crop is becoming more important sections are still an early frost to contend with. For this reason we think December 1st could be bought on a dull day for a further break.

Cats—Based on a little too much of the lower Monday. In that case we suggest buying December 1st.

Pork—Closed lower with rather heavy tone. Estimated receipts for Chicago are 400 and 500. Some estimate for next week. On Friday Monday purchases would be made for a temporary upturn. However, we would sell product again on any favorable chance.

DANNY THINKS IT WOULD BE FINE TO TAKE A SWIM - LIKE THIS EH? —

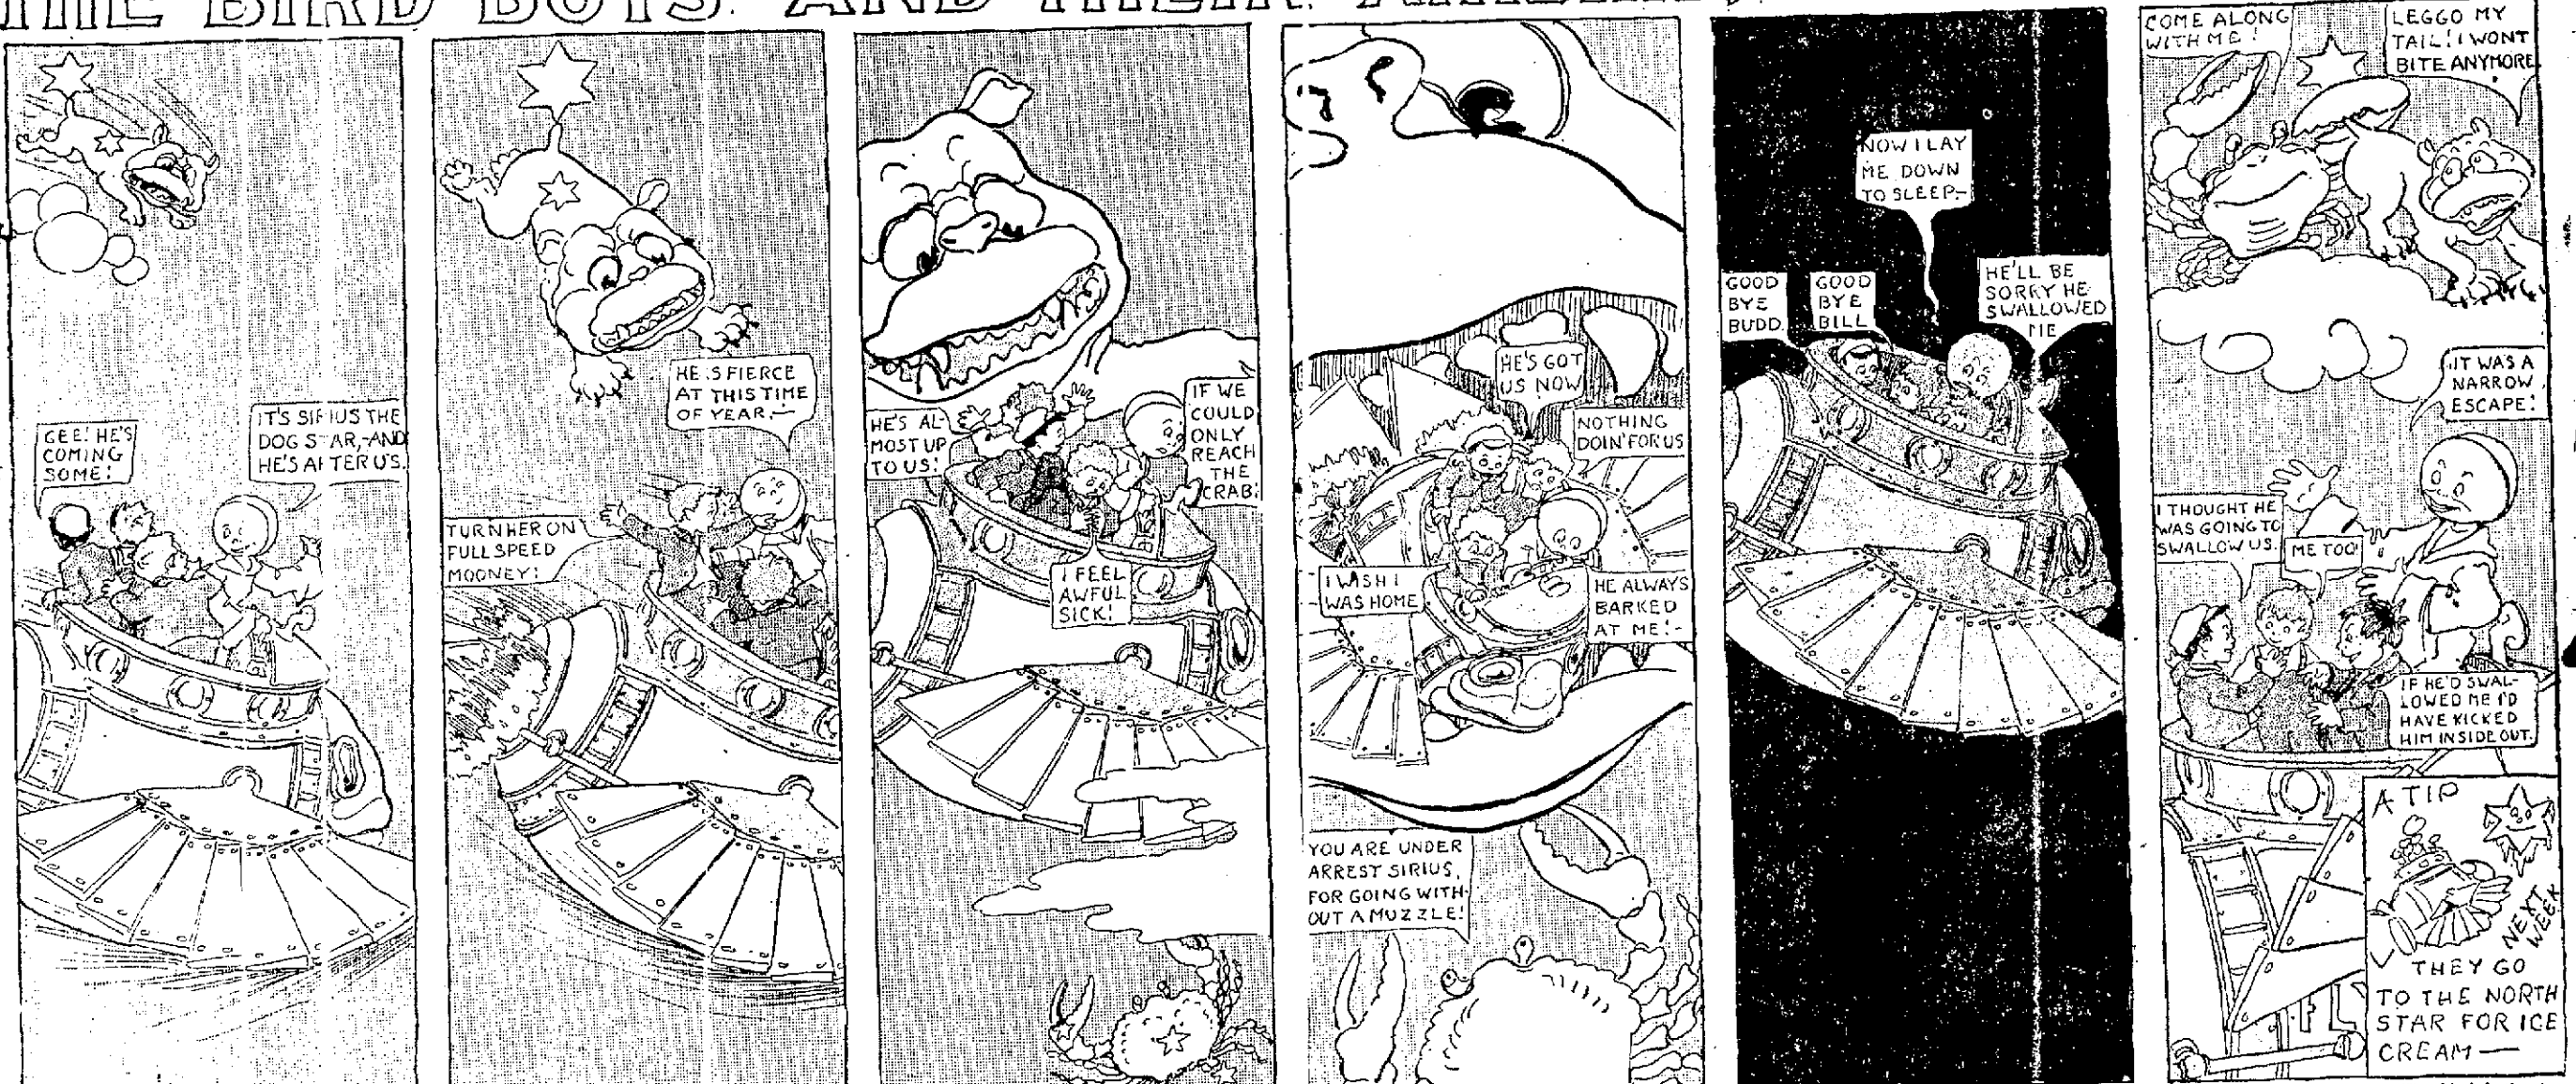

BUT! THIS IS AS FAR AS DANNY GOT TO GO SWIMMIN' - REALLY!

NOW ZEKE SMART IS SOMEWHAT MELONCHOLY

THE BIRD BOYS AND THEIR AIRSHIP, THE FLYING FISH

New dangers now loom for the boys and their stanch airship. It's Sirius that closes them and he's the great "dog star". His jaws are widely spread apart. He shows his horrid teeth. It is a terror-bringing sight for those that are beneath.

Full speed they turn in effort to escape forthcoming pain. But as he gains upon them, they foresee it is in vain. The Moon Man, who is still their guest, in stellar awe is immersed. He says that at this time of year the dog is at his worst.

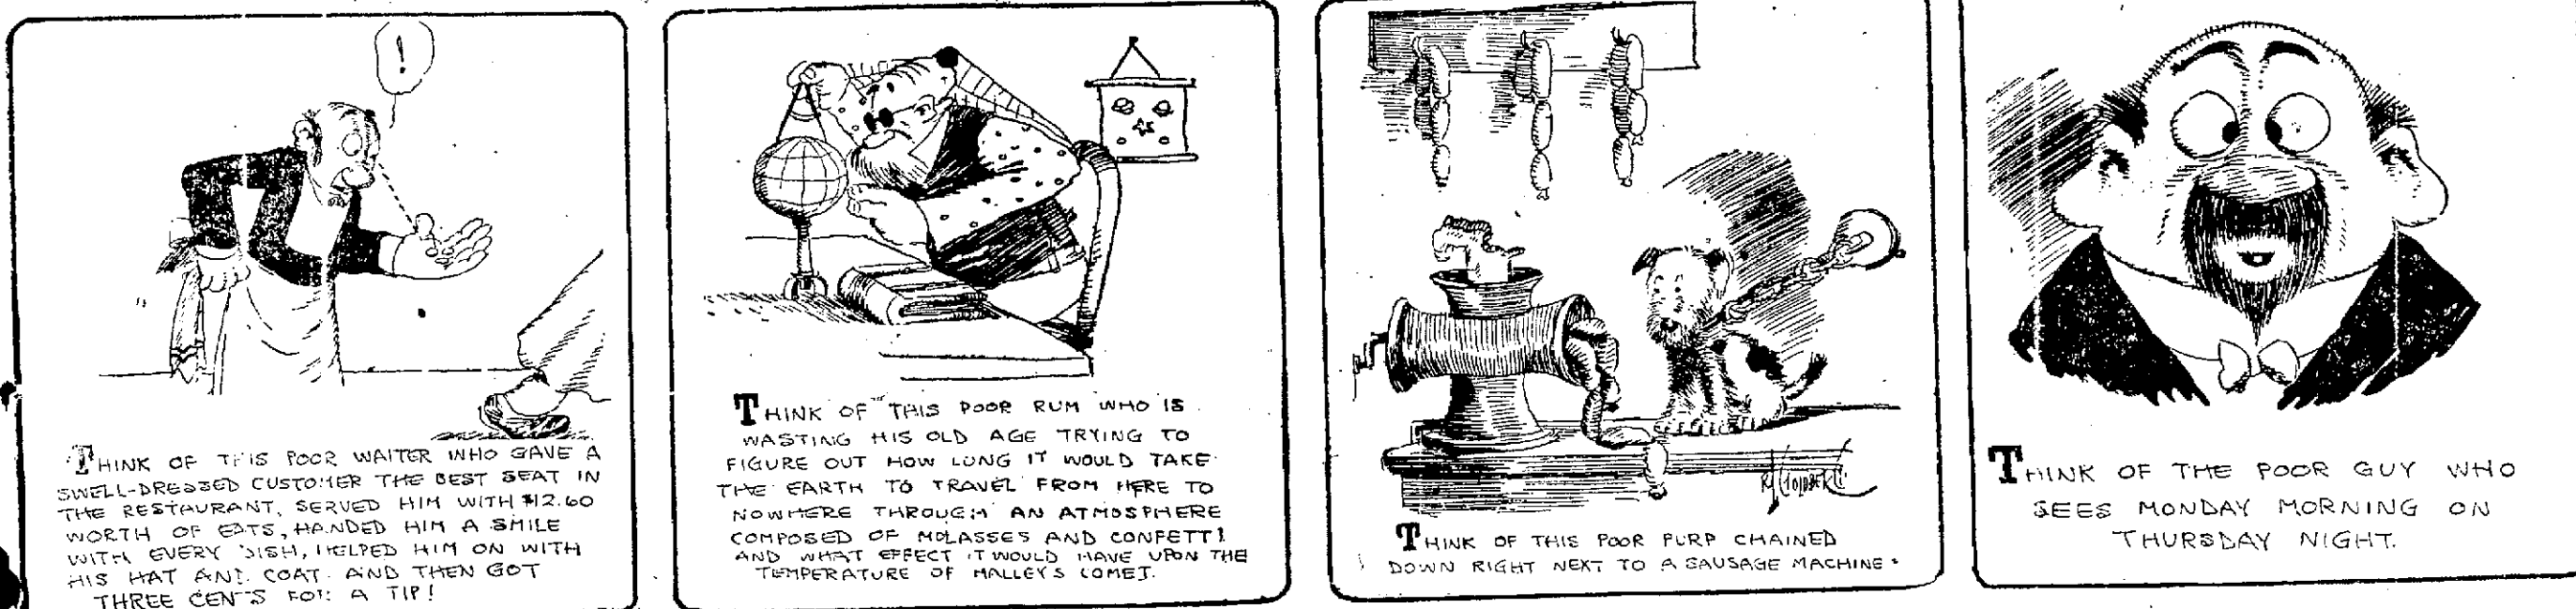

More huge he grows at every pace until his glaring eyes glare down on them at such close range, they almost hypnotize. Poor Mooney has a single hope, and that is rather slim. He says unless they reach the Crab, the outlook will be grim.

Those mighty jaws surround them; they are taken at a gulp. It seems as if those saber teeth will grind them into pulp. With such a monster of the sky the boys can hardly cope. They all resign themselves to fate and spurn the thread of hope.

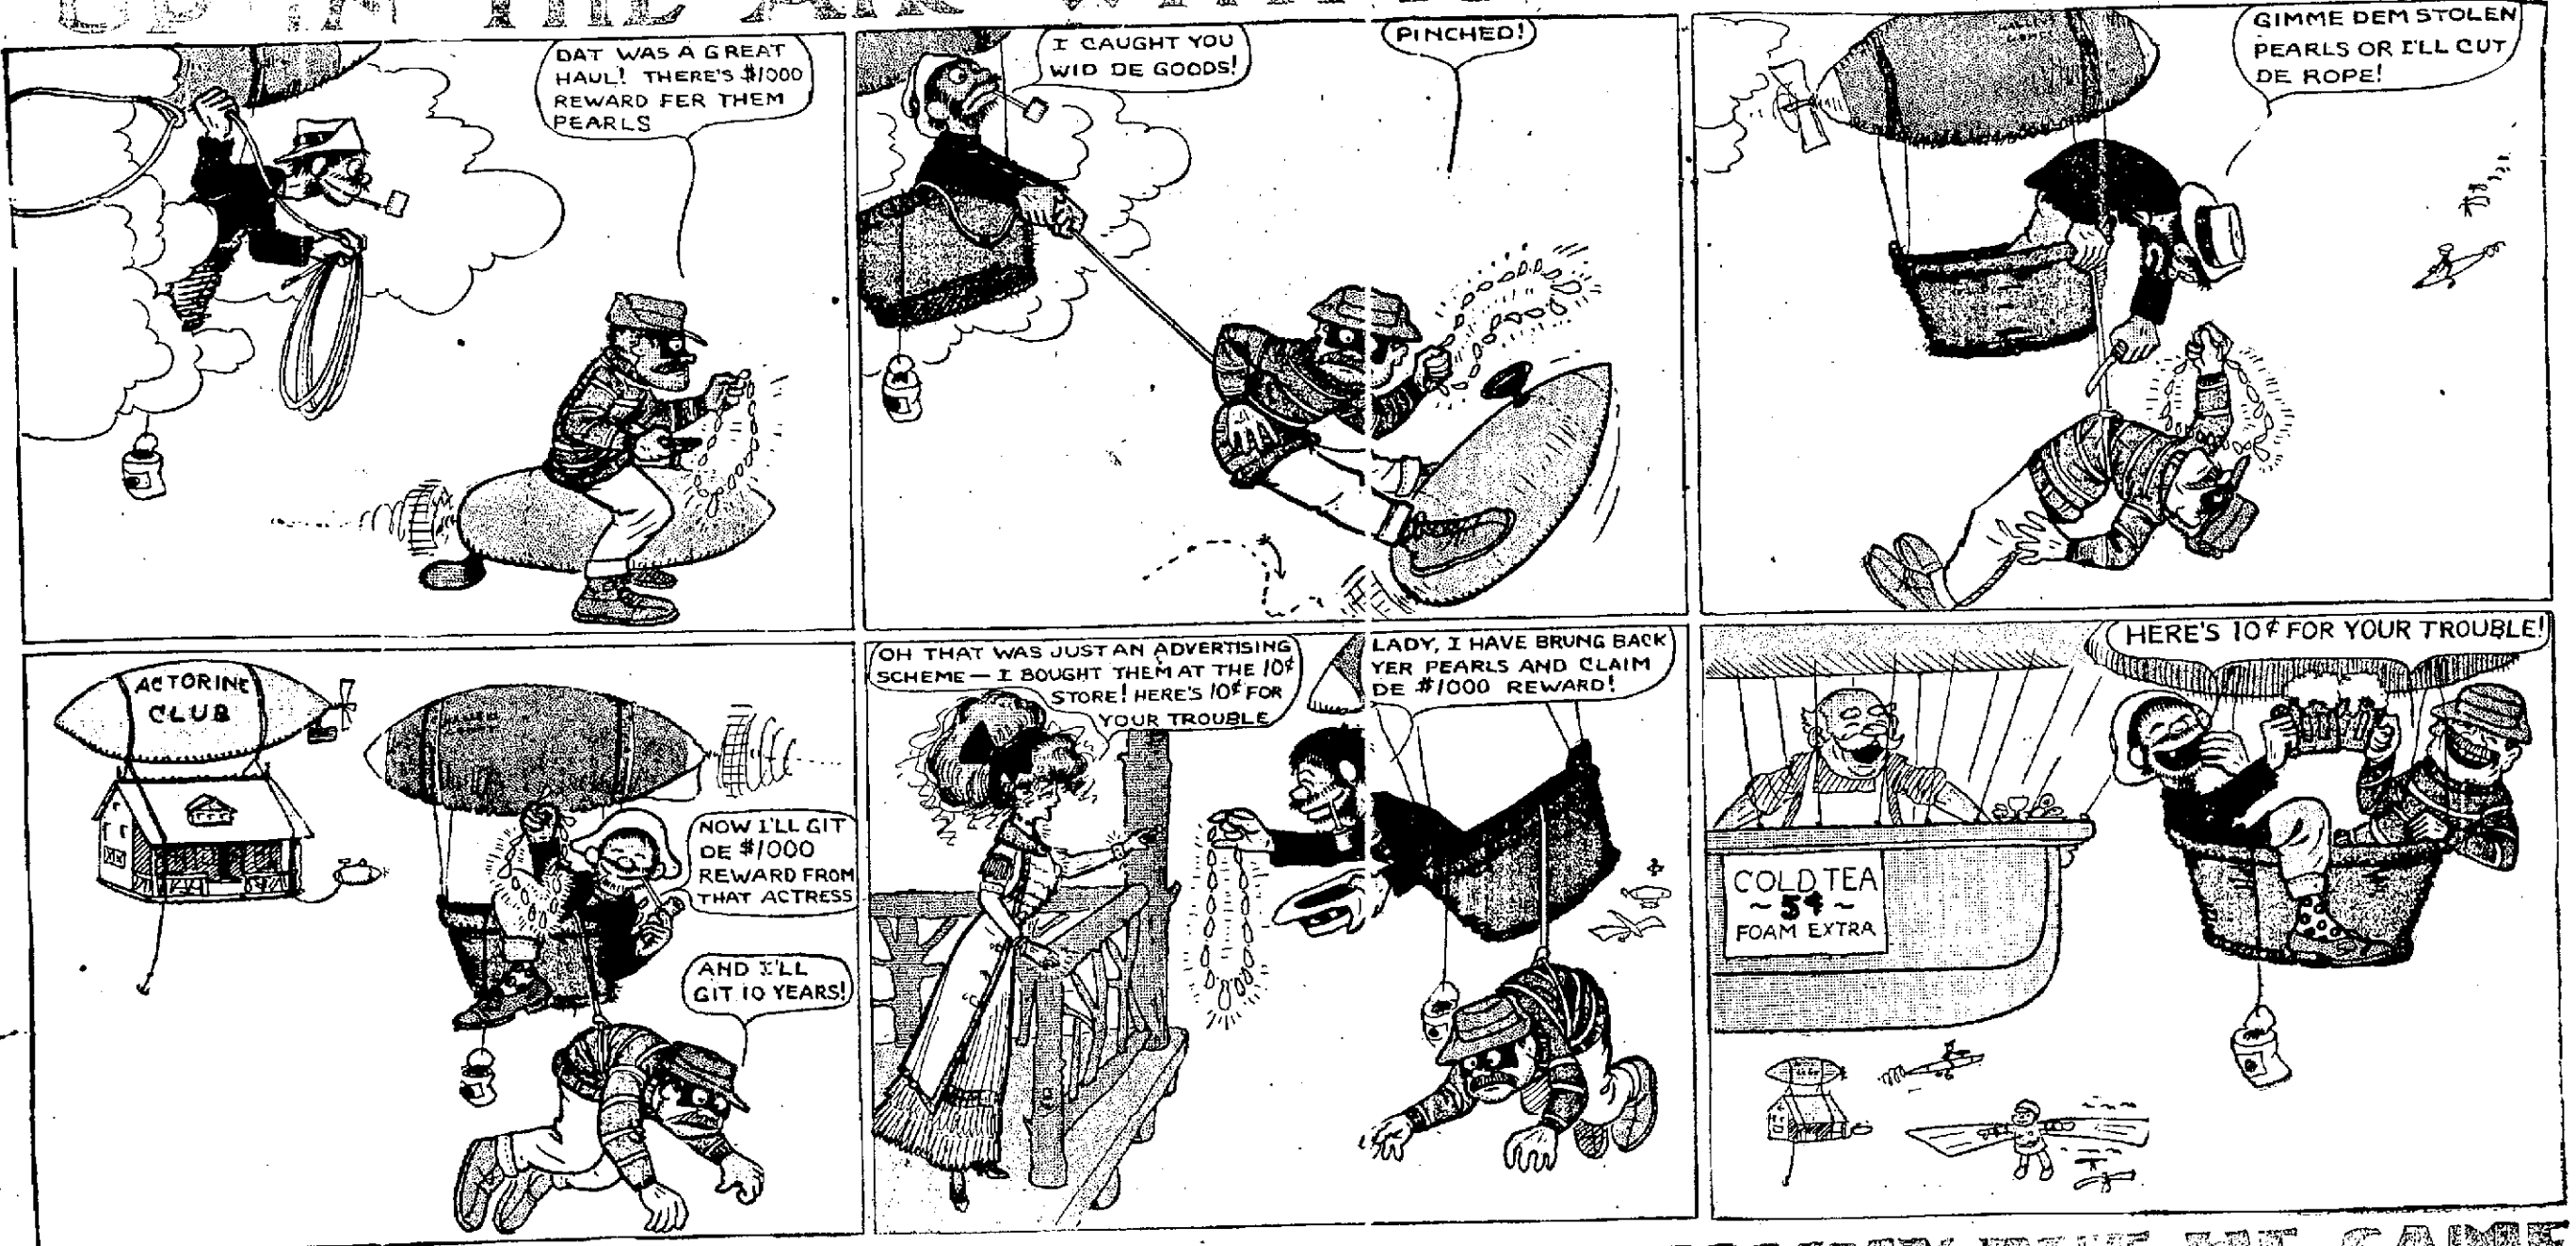

Now darkness comes and all seems lost. Within the dog star's mouth. They cannot see in front of them, nor guess which way is south. They pass a circle of farewells. The end of all seems nigh. There is no use to make defense; they therefore do not try.

What ho! The light returns. The ship is in the air and free. The party for the reason do not seek amid their glea. The sky Crab is their rescuer. It's nipped the dog star's tail. To make him open up his jaws no mildness could prevail.
